

Debbie

Debbie has a background as a social worker in statutory Children's and adult services.

Since retiring she supports the work of a number of organisations:

She is a panel member for Redress Scotland – an independent body that determines financial redress payments for adults who suffered abuse in care in Scotland.

She is an independent chair of specialist Mother and Baby Boards in the Ministry of Justice HM Prison and Probation service.

She is a Trustee of Number 8 Tamworth that provides supported housing to young parents and children.

She is a Soroptimist (meaning best sister)- an international movement that champions the rights of women and girls and has consultative status with the United Nations.

